Support Local Small Business

Every day is a good day to shop local and support our locally owned and operated small businesses, but following the recent weather-related challenges, this is an especially important time to do so.

The Belton Area Chamber of Commerce is encouraging everyone to be extra aware of the need to support local businesses as they recover from yet another challenge. The recent shut down caused by ice and snow, as well as the added challenges of electrical outages, water shortages, repairing damage from broken water lines, and delays in getting needed supplies, have been another blow to our local economy.

The good news is that our locally owned small businesses are strong and resilient, and our community is understanding and supportive. Together we will overcome these additional challenges and come out stronger than ever.

The Belton area continues to grow at an amazing pace due in no small part to the investment of local small business owners in our community. We have several locally owned and operated small businesses and restaurants that contribute in numerous ways to the growth and prosperity of our community. Local businesses contribute through job creation, collection of sales taxes with a portion remaining local to support local services, and add to the overall quality of life.

“We encourage everyone to support our local businesses throughout the year, but when unexpected challenges occur it is incumbent on all of us to do our part to keep our community thriving,” said Randy Pittenger, President/CEO of the Belton Chamber. “Following this most recent weather-related event, especially with the ongoing impact of COVID-19, our local businesses need our ongoing support. So join us as we show some love to our local businesses.”

Let’s all do our part to keep Belton open by wearing a mask, practicing social distancing, washing hands often, and shopping local.
